Beauty. Business. Your way.

A thoughtful starting point for exploring a JAFRA business with Diana.

Begin with your real life

01 / Name your reason

Are you interested in products for yourself, selling to customers, learning new skills, or exploring leadership? Your reason shapes the questions to ask.

02 / Check your resources

Identify the time, comfortable spending limit and skills you can bring. Consider who you could serve and how you prefer to connect.

03 / Ask before deciding

Request the current official enrollment terms and compensation materials. Review costs, responsibilities and support before making a commitment.

Diana Driggs

Independent JAFRA consultant

Bring these questions to Diana

Costs & terms

What fees, purchases, shipping, taxes or other expenses apply?

How it works

How are sales, customer orders, returns and compensation handled?

Support

What training is available, how often, and what should I do myself?

This is an exploration planner, not an earnings promise or a statement of current JAFRA terms.

© 2026 Diana Driggs. All rights reserved where applicable.

Your business exploration brief

Use this page to prepare for an informed conversation, at your own pace.

What interests me most

Personal products / customers / skills / leadership

Time I can realistically set aside each week

Consider work, family and other commitments

My comfortable spending limit

Include possible business expenses; ask what is optional or required

People I would like to serve and how I would connect

For example: personal conversations, community events or online content

Questions I want answered before deciding

Current terms, costs, compensation, returns and specific support

Explore it through a conversation.

"Hi Diana, I read your business guide. I am interested in ___. Could we review the current terms, costs and the support you offer?"

Explore JAFRA with Diana Get to know the products

For personal use only. You may download and print a copy for yourself. Republishing, adapting or selling protected portions requires written permission from Diana Driggs, except as permitted by law. JAFRA trademarks and product photographs remain the property of JAFRA.

© 2026 Diana Driggs. All rights reserved where applicable.